'LIVE' TEACHING EXPECTATIONS - PARENTS AND CARERS

October 2020

For Parents and Carers

- Parental / carer approval must be given before pupils may participate in live sessions
- If a child is taking part in live sessions, the parent / carer will receive an email invitation from the teacher which will include the dates and times of the live sessions. It will also state the end times. With regards to 'live' teaching, this email will cover a 14-day period.
- Parents / carers must reply to the email, as they will need to confirm to the teacher that supervision will be provided at that time of the lesson
- Parents / carers do, of course, have the option to decline the offer of their child participating, however, our school strongly encourages participation.
- A parent / carer, or another appropriate adult, must be present in the room with the child for the duration of live sessions.
- Parents / carers must identify a suitable location for their child to use for live sessions, for example a living room or dining area. Bedrooms should not be used.
- Parents / carers should ensure that, as far as possible, distractions are removed, including mobile phones, smart watches, pets and siblings, and there is quiet.
- Parents / carers should make every effort to support live sessions by ensuring their child is suitably dressed, prepared and ready to learn / engage
- Parents / carers should familiarise themselves with the expectations of pupils set down in our school's guidance and ensure their child adheres to them.
- Parents / carers are responsible for ensuring that the privacy of other family members is maintained during live sessions.
- Lessons delivered 'live' are still lessons and pupils are expected to present themselves and behave appropriately. High standards of behaviour are expected for live sessions, just as they are in the classroom.
- Parents / carers should not use these live sessions as a means for communication between parents / carers and teachers. Such communication should be via email, in the first instance, in the usual way.
- Parents / carers must not record or share these live sessions, nor comment on public forums about individual teachers.
- Parents / carers should read and familiarise themselves with the attached guidance from National Online Safety.

I agree to the points outlined above and will abide by them.
